

CHILDREN TORN FROM FATHER BY COURT'S DECREE

William Knight Forced to Give Up Little Ones to Their Aunt.

MOTHER ON HONEY MOON

Husband She Divorced, Also
Wed Again, Refused to Surrender Them.

A pathetic scene was enacted in Justice O'Gorman's part of the Supreme Court today when, by a decree of the Justice, William Knight, a member of the Produce Exchange, was forced to give over his two little children, Kathryn, aged four, and William Jr., aged nine, to the custody of their great-aunt, Mrs. Gertrude Murray King, of No. 192 Bergen street, Brooklyn.

Knight, who was divorced by his first wife, the mother of the children, had been ordered to produce the children in court and show cause why they should not be delivered over to Mrs. King during the absence of their mother, who was married to Charles D. Orth, a broker, on March 4, and is now in Bermuda on a honeymoon trip.

According to the terms of the divorce granted to Mrs. Knight, she was to have the custody of the children, but with the understanding that they should visit their father at stated intervals. Counsel for Knight said this amounted substantially to an equal division of the children's time between their father's and mother's homes.

Refused to Surrender Them.

Knight married after his wife got the divorce, going out of the state for the ceremony. His second wife, a handsome young woman with a mass of black hair and large, brown eyes, was in court with him to-day.

When the first Mrs. Knight married Orth the children were visiting their father in his home, No. 257 West Ninety-first street.

After the period of their visitation fixed by the Court was up Knight refused to surrender them to Mrs. King, who was appointed by Mrs. Orth to take care of them in her absence.

"The mother," said Justice O'Gorman, "after hearing argument, would have the right to leave the children with a servant if she desired, provided there was nothing to show such person was not improvident or bad; then I would give her the children."

Justice O'Gorman directed that Mrs. King take the children to her mother's home in Manhattan, No. 63 West Seventy-eighth street.

Clings to Her Father.

"But," said Knight's counsel, "will Your Honor not direct that the children be returned to their father tomorrow, which is the day they are due to him again for a period of two weeks?"

Justice O'Gorman held that the children should remain with Mrs. King for the next two weeks, Knight's wife will then be free to see them at the expiration of their last period with him had deprived Mrs. King of her period with them.

During the proceedings in court the boy stood on with curious eyes, little Kathryn, wearing a neat white dress and tumbling a small handkerchief, sat by her father and hugged closely his knee. William Jr., sat by the side of Mrs. Knight.

Knight and his wife appeared much disturbed when told that they would have to surrender the children to Mrs. King, remained where the children were, and directed a nurse, who is employed jointly by the father and mother, to help them on with their wraps.

Knight put his arm around his little daughter and kissed her. His eyes were watery at the time. Then he kissed the boy.

"Good-bye, papa," the children chorused, and Knight and his wife departed.

MRS. FARQUHAR'S DIVORCE.

Decree Granted to Wife Who Husband Says She Wouldn't Keep House.

Mrs. Penny P. Farquhar was granted a divorce decree from Norman Farquhar to-day by Justice Tracy in the Supreme Court. She was awarded $100 monthly alimony and the custody of their child, Norman Jr.

In the testimony before a referee the husband declared that his wife refused to keep house and that she was ambitious for a stage career and had strange religious ideas.

SIMPSON CRAWFORD COMPANY'S idea of making every Friday a Special Cut Price Day is a great success, isn't it?" remarked a customer.

It is. You see, we don't cut prices here and there only; we cut them in every department in the store. We do it decisively, determinedly.

Best of all, we cut on the standard lines, for we do not sell any other kinds.

You might liken the Store to a giant plum tree. Every Friday the spirit of Endeavor gives the tree a tremendous shake, and down come thousands of bargain plums into eager hands.

It is a real delight to come into this fine, elegantly appointed store and be able to buy exactly what you want at much less than you would pay elsewhere. There is always that atmosphere of good taste and good company about the Store that makes shopping a pleasure. Everything new, and everything of the best.
